DEUTSCHLAND HAS NOT YET BEEN SIGHTED AT FORTRESS MONROE.—BRITISH LAY TRAP?

EXPECT BREMEN SOON

Manager of Eastern Forwarding Company Hints That Sister Submarine May Dock at Baltimore Tomorrow.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Baltimore, Aug. 2.—Last reported as passing Solomons Island at 2:30 o'clock this morning, the next word of the German merchant submarine Deutschland, which sailed from this port last evening for Germany, is expected to come from some point in lower Chesapeake bay. Solomons Island is about eighty miles from the Virginia Capes.

At Speed of 16 Knots.
The Solomons Island dispatch said that the Deutschland was steaming at a speed of sixteen knots an hour, that there was no indication of when she would stop, and that it seemed she was going right down to the Capes.

If this proves true, the Deutschland could be sighted at Old Point, Virginia, or at some point of observation in that neighborhood early this morning.

The sailing plans of the Deutschland were a carefully guarded secret, but when the left Baltimore, there was a belief that she would proceed direct to Newport News, Va. On the other hand, there was an expectation in some quarters that the submersible would seek a quiet cove or inlet somewhere in lower Chesapeake Bay and there await the opportunity to make a dash through the allies' blockade off the Cape.

No word has been heard from the Deutschland since the sister ship, since a left Bremerhaven, according to Paul Hilkens, a member of the Eastern Forwarding company, the American agents of the Deutschland.

Expect Bremen Tomorrow?
Purely as a guess, Mr. Hilkens said today the Bremen may arrive at Baltimore any time after tomorrow. He did not know the date on which she left Germany, but he said, "He admitted that preparations were being made at the Locust Point pier, just vacated by the Deutschland, to receive another submarine. Mr. Hilkens also said his company had engaged a stevedore every large port on the Atlantic seaboard."

Mr. Hilkens talked concerning the line of submarine merchantmen which the builders and owners of the Deutschland have proposed to establish between Germany and America.
One of the submersibles of the line will be named "The America," he said, and another will be called "The Baltimore."

How to Avoid Allies' Patrol.
The problem faced by Captain Koetter, commanding the Deutschland, as he is to get his ship past the patrol of the British cruisers, is Henry and Cape Charles, at the mouth of the Chesapeake, has aroused the keenest interest among naval officers.
The consensus of opinion seems to be that the German submersible will make his fight on the surface of the waters, and at night, preferably a dark night, or a stormy, foggy one.

Predict Little Difficulty.
Naval officers here believe that the Deutschland will not have any great difficulty in making her escape. It is well known that British cruisers are lying off the Capes. They have been patrolling these waters, sum up, ever since the war began, and larger vessels than the Deutschland have succeeded in slipping past them. On a dark night or a foggy or misty evening the Bremen ships have the greatest difficulty in spotting the Deutschland with their searchlights, working over such a great expanse of sea as is presented outside the Capes at the three mile distance. To find the submarine with searchlights would be like finding a needle in a haystack, naval officers say, and if she were picked up with the lights the result would be almost certain.

Fortress Monroe, Va., Aug. 2.— Eighteen hours after the German merchant submarine Deutschland sailed from Baltimore on her return to Germany, the British cruisers from the Virginia capes and in Hampton Roads, and nothing has been heard from her since six-thirty o'clock this morning when she was sighted off Tangiers about sixty miles up Chesapeake Bay.

Lay Net for U-Boat?
Newport News, Aug. 2.—Two aeroplanes were seen flying over lower Chesapeake bay at Hampton Roads, sharply after darkness today. They were not from the Atlantic coast aeronautical station here. It is believed they came from the armored cruiser North Carolina, on neutrality patrol off the Virginia capes. The machines maneuvered back and forth over the water at a moderate altitude.

Passengers arriving today on an Old Dominion line steamer from New York reported that when the ship approached the Virginia Capes only one foreign warship was sighted.

They told of seeing an object lying low in the water with two men visible, which the foreign cruiser was heading. It looked like two huge buoys with masts above them, and some of the passengers thought it might be supporting a net. It lay just outside the three mile limit, where the channel is narrow.

NO CHANGE IN PLAN FOR THE EXECUTION OF ROGER CASEMENT

Condemned Man to Die Thursday Morning as Scheduled Unless Asquith Acts Shortly.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Bulletin.
London, August, 2.—Lord Robert Cecil today authorized the Associated Press to state that Roger Casement will be executed tomorrow.
There will be no reprieve, Lord Robert declared.

London, Aug. 2.—Roger Casement's solicitor, Gavin Duffy, of Dublin, had not received word this morning of any change in the plan for the execution by hanging at nine o'clock Thursday morning of his client at Pentonville prison. Premier Asquith had received an extensively signed petition from Ireland, but beyond a formal acknowledgment he had not further communicated with its originators.

Casement, according to Solicitor Duffy, who sees the condemned man frequently, remains unconcerned, he no longer looked dejected or depressed and betrays no emotion as the hour of his execution approaches.

Hope.
Gavin Duffy, Roger Casement's solicitor, said this afternoon he had reason to believe there would be no reprieve in the case of the former knight, who is to be executed by hanging at Pentonville prison tomorrow morning.

Asks for Clemency.
Washington, Aug. 2.—At President Wilson's direction, the state department cabled to Ambassador Page for presentation to the British foreign office, the resolution passed last week by the senate requesting the president to urge that Great Britain extend clemency to Irish political prisoners.

Resolution was designed chiefly to advance Roger Casement's sentence to hang tomorrow.

DENMARK DEBATING SALE OF ISLANDS

Danish Parliament Has Not Yet Reached a Decision, According to London Information.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Aug. 2.—Messages received here from Copenhagen say that the Danish authorities have not confirmed the reports of the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States.

The newspaper Politiken says the Rigsdag will hold a secret session on Friday, when the government will answer questions on the subject.

The newspaper København has started a campaign against the sale of the islands. The Danish officials are reluctant to censure on messages is being maintained. An official announcement was made at Washington, July 26, of negotiations for the purchase of the Danish West Indies by the United States for $25,000,000 virtually had been completed.

JEFFRIS CLUB WILL MEET ON THURSDAY

Will Complete Formal Organization at City Hall—Vice Presidents to Be Named.

On Thursday evening at seven o'clock the persons who have signed the membership cards for the Jeffris republican club and others who wish to affiliate with the organization will meet and complete the work of organization and plan for future gatherings in the interest of Jeffris's candidate for United States senator.

Thomas S. Walsh has been elected president of the Jeffris club and J. P. Ham-marlund is secretary and treasurer for both the Jeffris club and county organization. At the meeting Thursday it is hoped there will be a large attendance, as there is much business to be done and various organization committees to be elected.

TROOPS IN MEXICO OBLIGED TO SINK WELLS TO OBTAIN WATER

The scarcity of water in Mexico has proven one of the worst problems for the army men to solve. Some of the soldiers at Pershing's headquarters at Colonia Dublan have sunk a well in the camp. Here most of the drinking water is obtained. The water from this well is not like the water from the spring wells in the mountains and is not cold, but it is free from germs and that is the main essential.

RUSH MORE TROOPS TO PREVENT BANDIT ATTACK AT HANCOCK

Rumor of Activities in Vicinity of Fort Hancock Leads to Dispatch of Reinforcements.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

El Paso, Aug. 2.—Troops E and H, Eight cavalry, left here hurriedly at 1:25 this morning in a special train for Fort Hancock. A company of infantry in motor trucks and a motor cycle corps left a short time before, also for Hancock.

There had been various rumors here through the night of bandit activities in the neighborhood of the fort. One version had it that a band of one hundred or more Mexicans crossed the line to avenge the deaths of the Mexican cattle thieves shot down Monday in the fight with an Eight cavalry detachment about six miles from the fort.

Owing to the distance and poor roads, General Gonzales, at Juarez, has not yet heard the results of the chase by Carranzistas for the two bandits who escaped from the fight to the Mexican side of the border.

A thorough search of the territory between Finley and Fort Hancock by United States regulars failed to disclose Mexican bandits.

Two troops of the eighth cavalry are scouring the gulches and canyons between Finley, Tex., and Fort Hancock, about seventy miles east of here, in search of bandits.

The cavalry is supported by a battalion of the 23rd infantry, rushed from El Paso to Fort Hancock early today in response to reports to General Bell, commanding the El Paso military district, that bandits in large numbers had crossed the Rio Grande in that vicinity.

Bandits Attack Train.
Laredo, Tex., Two hundred bandits attacked a North Bound National Line train at Gonzales Junction, Mexico, on the afternoon of July 23, and killed several men and wounded many others.

The train was carrying a large number of soldiers, several bandits and nine soldiers were killed, according to reliable reports received today at Laredo. The bandits were dispersed.

YOUNG GIRL STARTS ON TRIP WITH MAN

Fifteen Year Old Girl and Man Are Arrested As They Start Out to See the United States.

Aurora, Ill., Aug. 2.—Eve Vohner, a pretty little fifteen year old girl, left Aurora today for Grafton, West Virginia, in custody of a deputy United States marshal. Eve set out two weeks ago "to see the country" with James Taylor, a railroad man, aged twenty-one, who she had met two days before.

She won $247 the night before we left," he said, "and came into the restaurant where I worked and said:
'I've got the money, Eve. Let's get out and see the country.' And I said, 'The whole United States?' and he said, 'Yes,' and the next morning we started. We got as far as Aurora, where he has an uncle, and we stopped."

On complaint of the girl's mother, Mrs. E. Owens of Grafton, Taylor was taken to Chicago yesterday to be arraigned on a charge of violating the Mann act. The girl was taken into custody today to appear as witness against her companion on the "Seeing America First" jaunt.

SHORT FUNDS BALK IRON RANGE STRIKE

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 2.—Lack of nesota iron range and defeat the industrial Workers of the World, according to Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, I.

W. W. leader.

Washington, Aug. 2.—President Wilson has not changed his position that the woman suffrage question should be dealt with by the individual States.
It was announced today at the White House. The statement was brought forth by the announcement yesterday of Charles Hughes, the republican nominee, that he favored an amendment to the federal constitution giving the vote to women.

A delegation of suffragists saw the president yesterday and afterward indicated they believed he would make a new statement on the question before the convention of the National Women's Suffrage association in September. At that time the policy to be pursued in the presidential campaign will be determined by the National Suffrage association.

Today Secretary Tumulty discussed the question with the president and afterward announced Mr. Wilson's position on the subject was unchanged.
This position as outlined several times to suffragist delegations within the last three years, is that while he favors votes for women, he is opposed to federal action.

The president voted for woman suffrage in New Jersey last year. It was indicated that today's announcement was final.

Street Car Situation in New York Will Be Placed Before Mayor Mitchell—Mediation Board for Garment Workers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Aug. 2.—A committee of fifty men continued today the counting of the strike vote cast by four hundred thousand employees on 225 railroad systems in the United States. Timothy Shea, who is in charge of the counting, said he believed the vote will be almost unanimous to quit work.

Half Want Strike.
When 200,000 of the 400,000 ballots cast by members of the four brother-hoods who are voting on the question of calling a general strike on 225 railroads, had been counted at noon today, it was announced that "a preponderant number of the men are in favor of a strike."

May Avoid Car Strike.
New York, Aug. 2.—While some of the leaders of the movements to involve all the street car lines in New York in the strike on the Third avenue system were busy enrolling the employees of the other lines into the union, others called on Mayor Mitchell today and informed him of the union's demands, and agreed to meet him tomorrow morning with representatives of the street railway corporation in another effort to bring about a satisfactory settlement.

These leaders informed the mayor that there has been one instance at least of the discharge by the New York Railway company of an employe for union activities and that a strike would be the inevitable result. The mayor requested them to withhold action until tomorrow's conference, and elicited a promise that his wishes would be respected.

Mayor Still Hopeful.
Although the mayor has not relinquished hope of bringing about arbitration, it was said that he feels that most of the strike leaders and railway officials are such that the chances of avoiding a strike are small.

The threatened tie-up of every car line in greater New York is, he only the first step in the nation-wide strike of railway car men in order to win the union's demand for the right to organize everywhere, it was stated today by Louis Freiger, counsel for the union organizers.

Mediators for Garment Workers.
New York, Aug. 2.—Three mediators appointed by the United States department of labor to conciliate here today with manufacturers of women's garments and with leaders of the union of their employees in an attempt to end the strike of 45,000 makers of women's clothes, which has been in progress for fourteen weeks.

PROTEST BLACK-LIST AT STEVENS POINT

"Posted" Men Call Meeting to Voice Objections to Law Which Bars Them From Saloons.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Stevens Point, Wis., Aug. 2.—A convention of "posted" men to protest against the law that forbids them "but permits even a dog to enter a saloon" will be held at a public hall tonight.

There are 100 men on the list. A large printed notice has been issued calling the meeting. The question of legal action to test the law will be considered.

The contention of the posted men is that the law forbidding them to enter the bar room, violates their rights under the constitution, as it lays them liable to sentence without trial.

LA FOLLETTE CALLS FOR OUTSIDE AID TO OPPOSE JEFFRIS

Will Import Senators Works, Norris, Clapp, Gronna and Borah to Assist in His Campaign.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Aug. 2.—A battery of progressive speakers, including several United States senators, are coming into Wisconsin about the middle of August to stump the state for Senator Robert M. La Follette, who is a candidate for reelection. This announcement was made by Charles H.
Crownhart, chairman of the La Follette campaign committee today.

Among the men who have announced their intention of coming to the state to spend ten days or two weeks stumping for Senator La Follette are:
Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska; Senator W. H. Kenyon, Iowa; Senator H. A. Cronin, North Dakota; Senator Moses E. Clapp, Minnesota; Senator William E. Borah, Idaho; Senator John D. Works, California; ex-Senator Joseph L. Bristow, Kansas; former Congressman James Mahan of Minnesota; and Andrew Fureuth of Washington, D. C.

These men will all travel with automobiles speaking at roadside and little towns in the day time and holding up at the larger towns in the evening.

According to the present itineraries Senator Works will probably speak in the counties of Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Calumet, Outagamie and Marquette; Senator Bristow will probably speak in Green, Rock, Walworth, Kane, Racine and Waukesha counties; Senator Norris in Clark, Rusk, Taylor, Price, Ashland and Bayfield; Senator Kenyon in Wood, Waushara, Spartan, Adams and Columbia; Congressman Mahan in Eau Claire, Chippewa, Polk, Burnett, Washburn and Barron; Senator Clapp in St.
Croix, Polk, Pierce, Buffalo, La Crosse and Monroe; and Senator Cronin in Trempealeau, Vernon, Richland, Dane and La Fayette counties.

Andrew Fureuth has asked that he be scheduled in laboring sections, especially in the lumbering belt, where he desires the opportunity of explaining the merits of the Seaman's bill, favored by Senator La Follette. Congressman Mahan has asked an opportunity to speak in the agricultural section. His long connection with the Equity Exchange of Minneapolis, with the late George Lofthus makes him these communities a speaker in these communities.

Senator La Follette has not yet been announced.

NORWAY PROPOSES A NEW LIQUOR LAW

Bill Prohibits Drink to Workers on Public Conveyances, Soldiers and Sailors, During Working Hours.

Christiania, Norway, Aug. 2.—A bill prohibiting all workers on public conveyances as well as soldiers and sailors of both the fighting and merchant fleets from consuming intoxicating liquors during their working hours and also forbidding the sale of such liquors to them has been introduced into the Norwegian parliament. It is believed that as the majority of legislators are in favor of prohibition, the bill will become law in a very short time and may possibly lead to prohibition throughout the country.

The measure provides for criminal prosecution of offenders against its articles, the first offense being punished by fine and a reputation by imprisonment for a maximum term of three months and liability to dismissal without possibility of return to public service.

Employees on street cars, omnibuses, taxicabs, railroads and passenger boats are to be subject to the provisions of the law, as well as soldiers and sailors, but the King will have power to grant dispensation to the officers and crews of warships visiting foreign ports where they may be given entertainment in restaurants.

Most of the Norwegian steamship lines already make it a condition of their contracts with their officers and crews that they shall totally abstain from drinking liquors during their service.

OLD PARTY LEADERS WORRIED BY MYSTERY IN SUFFRAGE RANKS

Even the Best of Politicians Are Unable to Foresee What Course Women Will Pursue.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 2.—Politicians here got their ears close to the ground in anticipation of the emergency-called convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association which opens here tonight. This was shown by letters and telegrams pours in on suffrage leaders here today.

Most of the leaders of the Women's forces determined to follow the victories gained at the Democratic and Republican national conventions, the action to be taken by the delegates here promised to hold as much interest for the political vicissitudes as the main elections.

Moreover this interest is being stimulated by the air of mystery which hovers over the suffrage convention, as comparatively little news has been let out to date concerning either the program or the plans of the leaders.

Not only the women at the head of the movement relieve the anxiety of the watchful political waiters with any advance information the subject.

"We have called the convention so that every phase of every subject which concerns our cause, our policies and our organization may properly be considered," said Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National
when interviewed here today.

"But what action are you going to take," demanded the interviewer.
"That will be for the convention to decide," was the smiling reply. "I may state, however, that no voice will be silenced and no opinion suppressed.
Further than that Mrs. Catt would say nothing."

Sixty-seven state suffrage organizations, covering every State in the Union, are affiliated with the national suffrage association and will be represented at the convention. The policy will extend from September sixth through the tenth. Altogether more than a thousand of the most representative of the country will be in attendance.

Although the official program has not yet been made public, it is known that a three-sided debate between the supporters of State action, federal action and a combination of the two will be one of the big features of the convention.

In the South the feeling is said to be strong against the national suffrage association, abandoning any policy that would lead to a straight fight for a federal suffrage amendment.

In other sections of the country, however, the feeling is more mixed, where amendments to the State constitutions take years of work and are regarded as practically impossible, the sentiment is reported to be equally divided between those who favor State campaigns and a concentration of the National's machinery for a drive on Congress.

These factions will be well represented at the convention, as well as those suffragists who believe in a continuation of the policy of combined federal and state action, which has been the standard policy of the association since its inception, and converted millions of voters to believe in it all over the nation.

The clash between these factions will be watched with interest by the politicians, because the outcome will have a decided effect upon the fall campaigns of both the leading parties.

PARALYSIS PLAGUE IS STILL SPREADING

Forty-one Deaths and One Hundred

New York, Aug. 2.—Forty-one children died and 166 were stricken in the city of New York in the last twenty-four hours in the epidemic of infantile paralysis.

More deaths and new cases were reported in Manhattan borough than at any time since the inception of the more deaths and two more cases, and reports from other nearby cities indicated the epidemic was far from being under control. This is the largest number of cases reported in a single day in five boroughs. Since the epidemic began there has been 4,289 cases reported and 837 deaths.

Obituary.

Merle Olney, second son of U. G. and Grace Lumm Miller, was born in Fulton township May 14th, 1895. Here nearly all his life has been spent, taking a great interest in his farm, always ready to do his share of the work with a ready will.

With Marie he was "Come on boys," ready to take the lead at the hard tasks and one of the last to leave until it was finished.

He never failed to help a friend or neighbor to share his last cent with those less fortunate than himself.

His good nature and happy disposition made him friends wherever he went, and to say he will be greatly missed is but putting it mildly.

Merle had always enjoyed the best of health until about four weeks ago, and a week later went to the sanitarium at Madison for treatment. Here he underwent an operation which greatly relieved his sufferings.

Although looking forward to again returning home, his mind was on the better things in life, saying to his mother, who was constantly by his side, "We will go to church every Sunday, when we get home." He was full of courage and interest in life to the last.

All the medical aid and loving hands could do to relieve his sufferings was done to no avail, and Merle fell asleep Saturday afternoon, July 25th at the age of 21 years, 2 months and 15 days. He leaves to mourn his passing his father and mother and a sister, two brothers, two aged grandmothers and many other relatives and friends.

"Angels of Life and Death alike are His."

Without His leave they pass no threshold o'er; Who, then, would wish or dare, believing this, Against His messengers to shut the door."

Funeral services were held at the home Monday afternoon. Rev. Wm. Horton, pastor of the M. E. church of Edgerton, read the service. Mrs. E. B. Leach of Janesville sang "Still With Thee and No Night There" very sweetly.

Among the relatives and friends from away were Mrs. Charles Miller, Sr., Stanton Miller, wife and daughter, Viola, Chester Miller, Sr., and daughter Lucile, Ernest Miller, wife and son Leslie, and Messrs. and Mesdames Fred Miller, Bert Miller, Chester Miller, Jr., of Evansville, Mrs. Adelaide Lumm Morris of Chicago; Charles Miller, wife and daughter; Mrs. Clark Osterheld of Clinton; Mrs. R. Pierce Edgerton; F. W. McKinney and wife, East Clinton; E. H. Brown and wife, East Center; and Mrs. E. B. Lofthorn, Janesville, besides many from Milton Junction and Newville.

LIMA

Miss Jennie Bowers.

Lima, Aug. 2.—Miss Jennie Bowers died Sunday morning at 10:15. She was born in the town of Milton on Oct. 1, 1870, so was nearly forty-six years of age. At the age of fourteen she became a member of the M. E. church at Milton and later transferred her membership to a church at Madison where she remained for eleven years of her life were spent. After graduating from the Whitewater normal in 1903 she taught for a year and a half in an industrial school in La Fayette, Louisiana, after which she returned to Wisconsin and became principal of the Lincoln school in Madison, which position she had very acceptably filled for eleven years. On account of poor health last year had been granted a year's leave of absence in hopes that the rest might benefit her. The funeral was conducted from the home on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Ida Margardt speaking words of comfort to the grief-stricken ones. Burial was made in Milton beside the father who was laid away in 1914. Left to mourn at the home, one brother, Frank, of Whitewater, one sister, Mrs. Della, who is with her mother, and two nephews, Carl and Lawrence Bowers of Whitewater, and a host of friends.

WISCONSIN BANKERS URGE USE OF SUMMER SILOS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., Aug. 2.—Because of "short pastures" due to hot weather, the Wisconsin bankers have issued a farm bulletin in which they advise the use of silage. The bulletin declares that for the farmers who do not have silos they will find that by erecting one they will have the best kind of insurance. The pamphlet, which is written by Roy T. Harris, supervisor of dairy science at the university, says that summer silos should be located close to where the cattle are to be fed.

PLEASE EVERYBODY.

It is absolutely impossible for a public official to please everybody.
Try as hard as you may some disgruntled person is sure to appear on the horizon. The public official must be content with the fact that he is doing his best to serve the public.
The public must be content with the fact that the public official is doing his best to serve them.

Recently the Gazette saw fit to make comment on the water works system of the city and the apparent neglect of the needs of the citizens as regards drinking fountains and hosing of public property. Immediately there came a shower of communications to the editorial table. They charged everything imaginable—almost, one might say, from petty larceny to highway robbery with intent to kill—against the city administration.

As is customary with communications that are unsigned, they were consigned to the waste basket. A few were traced out—post marks and note paper and such can be traced at times —and it was found they emanated from disgruntled citizens who never approved of the commission form of government or the present officials.

Others were merely senseless (vade-re, not worthy of publication) and names of responsible persons been signed to them.

There was plenty of criticism of the street department, but few words of commendation. The Gazette sees many words of commendations to utter. Handicapped as this important department of the city was at the opening of the season by the cold, wet rains. The incessant cool days and rainy nights and even days, they were unable to even start the oiling at a time when it could have been.

Then came the laying of the conduits for the street lighting system, just at a time when labor was scarce.
It was a rush job; men were taken off of public work elsewhere to finish this so that in case it did rain—it did not, but no one knew it would not—it could not be demolished and cost the city a great deal of money.

The street department should not be held responsible for the weather conditions, the shortage of men, and it did its best to supply the needs by working early and late, over-time and Sundays. They deserve credit in the minds of citizens, not unjust criticism.
What cilling has been finished has not yet been reached blame it onto the weather—not to the city administration.

Then came the first lighting of the new street lights. The "Stagger" lights, if you please. The first night they were lighted there was a gasp of wonder at their brilliancy. Some business men insisted they were placed too close together. Some criticized the city officials for their waste in doing so. Then came the reaction.
The lights were too powerful for the current for the do funny-go-grams, or whatever you call it of the electric company and smaller lights were substituted.

Again the Gazette was deluged with complaints. "Economy of the city's money where it was not needed. The people wanted the lights and they should have them." Sound logic, but it was knocked into a cocked hat the next few days when the lights were again changed—experimented with, if you please—and a light less bright than the original, but far lighter than the second choice, was given the public. The streets are wonderfully lighted; the change from the old system is so marked it is commented on, and still grumblers grumble.

To revert back to the water case.
Thus far, despite the month of extremely dry weather, weather in which everyone used all the water they could obtain freely, there has been no warning to curtail its use by the city authorities, yet Madison is talking of limiting the individual supply. Just stop and think of these things before becoming so pessimistic that you can not see that hole in the doughnut.

The Gazette holds no brief of the city government. It retains its right to freely comment and criticize its actions. There is much that could be said in commendation of many actions in some departments of the present administration, but give them their dues, they are real! seeking to give Janesville the best sort of an administration possible.

One question the advisability of so many frequent arrests for speeding by the police officers, especially when the victims are usually residents of other cities, or rural districts, and the abuse of the speed ordinance place to play.

on the part of many well known citizens whose love for fast driving is known, who escape molestation. Yet perhaps it is reasonable, although it drives trade from the city, as outside buyers do not visit Janesville when they figure they are singled out for persecution.

This hits the merchants' pocketbooks; they help pay the taxes and this causes trouble. Of course the question of enforcing the automobile or team ordinances, as to turning corners at right angles, keeping to the right of the road might be obviated, as in many smaller communities by erecting "dummy policemen" with these directions printed on them, has not been tried here, still it might help materially in protecting the public.
Of course ignorance of the law is no excuse, but if signs of this kind were exposed to public view there would be no excuse and the average motorist would know how to act without being accosted by an officer. It would save the police officer and the public much embarrassment.

However, the city administration is not able to please everybody. Old Aesop in a fable tells the story of the Father, the Son and the Ass, so pungent to the present discussion that it should be digested by all. First, the Father rode the Ass, Son came a man who suggested the Son ride, then another who said the Son should let the Father, and then one said both should, and then one who said the two should carry the Ass. You can not please everybody.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

Interest naturally centers upon the selection of the republican candidate for governor. With three aspirants in the race, with plenty of attack and counter-attack, the public should be pretty well informed as to all the details of the campaign long before they go to the polls to vote in September.
Phillips, the conservative republican candidate, has behind him his record of two years' work to reduce taxation, place the state administration on a business basis and the starving of the great work of reforming the reforms of the reformers. It has been a stupendous task and is only just beginning.

Hutton, one of the progressives, perhaps the ultra-progressive candidate, on the republican ticket, has the backing of the element that did all the work in the conservative state administration during the past legislative session and the long months that have followed. This faction of the republican party that really brought about the conditions which existed when Phillips took office and which, through his efforts, have been somewhat bettered despite the efforts of the "tax-eaters" to hamper him.

The third candidate is McGovern.
Twice he has been chosen governor of the state and during his two terms he was also hampered seriously by the same ultra progressive element that hampered Phillips. Breaking ties with the ultra progressive leader, Mc-Govern was disciplined two years ago when he ran for United States senator and a democratic senator sent down to Washington to represent the republican state, elected by the ultra progressive voters.

Of course one expects that the campaign will be one of recrimination.
In no other way could Phillips' administration be attacked. There will be much misrepresentation of the real facts, juggling of figures and playing with high finance, but the voters' eyes should not be blinded and they should be fully convinced that Phillips has been wrong, that his economy idea, which will save them money in the end, is wrong, before they swap horses in the middle of the stream.
The next month will tell the story and it will be a strenuous month at best.

HEALTH OF IMMIGRANTS.

People familiar with alien life in this country remark on the pathetic physical decline that they so often undergo. They come over here robust animals, in buoyant health gained by work in the fields. They are strong as horses, and brown as Indians. The women are broad-backed, well able to dig ditches or plow the earth.

They haven't the least idea of conserving their health in the new surroundings. The majority work in factories, ventilated mills or mines.
Many live in congested and unsanitary tenements. Those that work on farms fare better, but may not have the food they need.

At home they had an abundance of cheap farm products. In this country they find prices prohibitively high.
Intensely ambitious to save money and return to the Fatherland when the war is over, they deny themselves nourishing meat and fresh vegetables. They seek consolation for hours of toil in revelries peculiar to their race, and indulge immoderately in strong coffee and cigarettes.

The children of these people fare still worse. They early learn the taste of candy, ice cream, and coffee, which the parents feed out freely to keep the youngsters still. If they fall sick, a doctor may not be called until the rigor of death has set in. Then he is blamed for failing to save the child.

There is great need for instruction for these people in their own tongue on health and sanitation. It would not be difficult or costly to provide it.
Doctors could easily be found who would be willing, for a small charge and from public spirit, to give them common sense talks to be translated by an interpreter. The community is vitaly interested in having the second generation come up a strong and healthy race, and could well afford to give them a little help along these lines.

There is a mighty good issue for some candidate that can suggest a scheme for making the Mexicans pay some share of the enormous cost of protecting our border from the Mexicans.

Now that there is a chance that the children of New York's wealthy people may catch infantile paralysis, some consideration may be given to the idea of cleaning up the slums.

It is surprising what warm and disinterested attachment you find among the hotel servants as long as your supply of silver for tips holds out.

Up to date the principal suffering the national guard has had to meet on the border is in having to part with their best girls.

With so many swiftly moving automobiles, the children will have to go down on the railroad tracks for a safe place to play.

EDGERTON'S PICNIC HAS BIG ATTENDANCE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Edgerton, Aug. 2.—The T. A. and B. picnic held at the Driving park today drew an unusually large attendance, the number of admission tickets sold at noon being one thousand.
Promptly at nine o'clock this morning the parade started for the Driving park headed by the Edgerton corner band, followed by members of the T.
A. and B. societies, and carriages and autos. The baseball game between Edgerton and Hillsdale resulted in a score of 17 to 3 in favor of Edgerton. The battery for Hillsdale was Simpson, pitcher, and Chichers, Saunders, catcher, and for Edgerton, Whitford pitched and Hallett caught. About thirty-five horses are stabled at the track for the three race events. The race for all turning out to be a fast race and track records are expected to be broken.

Big Field Day.

The home coming and Y. M. C. A. field day will be observed at Fulton, August 4th, in the Frank Stryker grove. will attract quite a number of Edgerton people. The following program will be given during the day. At 10:30 a ball game between married men and single men. At 11:30 a relay race for boys. At 12 o'clock picnic dinner.
After dinner dodge ball game will be at 1:30. Shuttle relay race for men.
At 2:30 a relay race for girls. Then legged race. Volley ball game between Edgerton and Fulton.
Volley ball game between Janesville and Edgerton. Fifty yard dash for boys. Fifty yard dash for girls. 100 yard dash open to all. Relay race, open to all. At 3:30 a ball game between Fulton and Milton Junction.
Tug of war. Volley ball for girls.
This annual event at Fulton each year gives people a chance to get together and meet old acquaintances and the opportunity thus afforded is appreciated by all who attend.

Fred Blakely of Janesville was in the city yesterday advertising the Janesville fair.

Senator W. H. Hatton of New London and E. Dittmar, lieutenant governor, were in the city yesterday in the interest of Mr. Hatton's campaign for governor. After concluding their business in the city they motored to Evanston and were accompanied by J. R. Martin, D. C. Gray and P. W.
Jensen, where Mr. Hatton addressed the men at the Baker Mfg. company shop at noon. The party then left for Janesville. Mr. Hatton was well respected in this vicinity. He was followed by a large number of admirers and seemed well pleased with his prospects in this vicinity.

John Hanson was called to Nekoosee, Wis., yesterday by the illness of his little girl, who was visiting her grand parents at that place.

P. N. Grubb departed for Mauston last evening where he will visit at the home of his parents the balance of the week.

John Harrison of Sterling, Ill., is visiting with relatives in the city for a few days.

The street assessment committee met yesterday afternoon to listen to the objections that were raised to the prospective paving of the city this summer. There were no substantial objections raised and the board will meet at a later date to hear final objections.

Word was received in the city yesterday of the death of J. Hemple at his home at Nashville, Tenn. Mr.
Hemple has a sister, Mrs. Will Gilford, and a brother, Will Hemple, living in the city. He is a native of this vicinity, having lived for a great many years at Mauston.

August Raizlaff was a Milton business caller last evening.

The weekly shoot of the Edgerton Gun club will be held Friday, Aug. 4.
Suitable prizes will be offered.

Miss Ina Butler of Madison is a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs.
H. R. Martin.

James Doyle of Chicago spent a portion of the week at the home of Mrs. George Murwin of Fulton. Mr.
Doyle was at one time a resident of Edgerton.

Miss Genevieve McDonough and mother departed for Chippewa Falls last evening where they will visit at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs.
Attorney.

Robert Nelson returned yesterday from Peoria, Ill., where he has been spending the summer with his father.

Mrs. A. Gidding and daughter of Chicago and Mrs. Frank Farman of Stoughton were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Hammond on Tuesday.

Dan Quigley of Freeport is visiting at the home of his mother, Mrs. E.
Quigley.

Miss Deanta Djoih of Stoughton is a guest at the home of Miss Ada Davis for a few days.

LAUD HUGHES SPEECH

Wisconsin Congressmen Praise New York Address of Republican Candidate for Presidency.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.
"Judge Hughes has the magnetism to stir any crowd or any body of men," said Representative Cooper of Wisconsin Tuesday night upon his arrival as a special guest at the notification ceremonies of the republican presidential candidates.

Representative Cooper's ideas of Judge Hughes and the speech of acceptance were eagerly sought on Tuesday by his colleagues. Representative Cooper, one of the bedrock members of the house, gave them in this fashion:
"Mr. Hughes took that great crowd by storm."
Auditorium is Filled.
"Despite the unprecedented and unbearable heat, the enormous auditorium was filled from gallery to orchestra." Judge Hughes showed that he has the personal magnetism to hold an audience. They applauded him in his sentiments concerning Wilson's vacillating foreign policy. They were especially keen in their appreciation of what he said about the economic necessity of arranging this country's tariff and other business affairs so as to be protected after the war against the inevitable onslaught of the commerce of Europe. Every one remembers that before the war there were hundreds of thousands of men out of work all over the country. The war has given us a species of prosperity which will fade away after the war is over. Then the factories of Europe, with their cheap labor will begin to flood this country with goods, and unless we stall it off this country will be in a worse state than ever before.

Esch Praises Speech.

Representative Esch of Wisconsin said:
"Judge Hughes' speech clearly indicates the line of advance in the republican campaign."
"It shows that the Mexican question is to be a campaign issue. That question is a live and vital one in states where large numbers of National guardsmen have gone to the border."

The suffrage question and defense question, touched upon by Judge Hughes, place him squarely in the fore-front on those matters without sidestepping, however, the foreign policies of the administration from the main argument. We have been going forward and backward in a vacillating manner, not getting anywhere at all and it will be the best thing that could happen to us to initiate and carry on a strong foreign policy, especially a Mexican policy."
"The speech hits the Mexican failure on the head," said Representative Carv of Wisconsin, "and is good in every other respect, too. The speech urges us to wake up the country to the folly of a wavering policy with foreign nations."

FRANCE IN TRIBUTE

TO FIRST SON SHOT IN WAR OF NATIONS

Country Honors Man Who Participated and Died in First Clash With Prussian Invaders.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Paris, August 2.—France paused today in tribute to the memory of Corporal Jules-Andre Peugeot, the first Frenchman killed in the present war.
It was at Jenechery on the upper Rhine, at 10 o'clock a. m., August 2, 1914, about 24 hours before the war actually was declared between Germany and France, that Peugeot was shot to death by Lieutenant Mayer, at the head of a German patrol squad.
A national subscription is today being collected under the patronage of the Minister of War and the Minister of Public Instruction for the erection of a monument to Corporal Jules-Andre Peugeot on the spot where he fell.

It is proposed that the name and heroic acts of Peugeot pass down in history as have those of Marechal de-Lafayette, the first victim of the war of 1870, who was killed at Mededbronn.

Peugeot, 21; was a corporal in the sixth company of the 44th regiment of infantry. Early in August he was stationed at Jenechery, two kilometers from Delle and twelve kilometers from the German frontier.

On the morning of August 2, he had just finished placing a sentinal and returned to the house of A. M. Maccourt, when the latter's little daughter came running in crying.
"The Prussians! The Prussians!" Rushing outside, Corporal Peugeot found himself facing a mounted German patrol of seven members under command of Lieutenant Mayer of the Fifth Regiment of Chasseurs stationed at Mulhouse.

Peugeot gave the order to halt, to which Mayer replied by drawing his revolver and firing three shots into the body of the corporal. The latter fell to his knees, discharging his gun before he could take aim.

By this time a few of Peugeot's men had rushed up, one of whom, named Mannier, killed Lieutenant Mayer.

with two shots from his rifle. In the fight that followed, participated in by

BEHIND THE FRONT.

—It's all right to begin at the bottom, provided the bottom doesn't drop out.—Prof. Simp.

"Twas a quiet Sunday at the front.
"Corporal Squads," commanded General Scads, "assemble the camp and take the men to church." Corporal Squads saluted, and shortly afterwards Bugler Skids blew call to church.
"Hup," commanded Corporal Squads, "Hep hobbie. Wum. Pazzi." Obediently the men formed in double file, right about faced and forward marched.
"Zlami," ordered the corporal when the village church had been reached.
"Crickhupple. Bloo. Brrii." At once the men placed themselves themselves four abreast with arms at rest and feet at an angle of sixty-two and a half.
Just then the sexton hobbled out, quavering out that shells had wrecked half the church during the night and there was consequently not room for all.
"All those not desirous of attending church, fall out!" cried the corporal.
There was a considerable bustle, and a quarter of the men were left alone.
"All those that fell out march into church—you need it most," said Corporal Squads, as he carelessly followed with his eyes the course of a shell that just then sailed over his head and wrecked the postoffice.

"Y" BOYS WILL GO FISHING SATURDAY

Fishing Trip Is Planned by Boys' Secretary For Next Saturday—Bike Hike to Koshkonong.

Boys get into their fishing tackle and poles. On Saturday 11, J. C. Carr, at the Young Men's Christian Association, has planned an all day fishing trip and those wanting to go should get to touch with him. The trip will be made to some point at the river and if luck is with everyone, a good out-door fish fry will be held at the noon hour. Reports are that the fish will be good, so everyone prepared to have a fish dinner.

On Monday another outing is being planned. This will be a party for the Lake Union High School. The party will start in the early morning and will get to the lake before the heat of the day. For dinner fresh sweet corn and other good eats will be cooked out in a big tent. The swimming and all sorts of games will be the chief amusement during the day.

Swimming Period.

Secretaries have announced this morning that special swimming periods would be arranged during August and September. This is being done to give the girls and boys who do not like to swim the chance to learn.

commodated at the "Y". Special rates will be given to those who do not have membership cards. Boys will have their period on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week and men will be able to use the tank at any time.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have a friend who has asked me to write and ask you how she can get out of the habit of lying—telling wrong things. Please give me a good idea. I am in love with a man who lives in my town. He is going away. Would you correspond with him if you were in his shoes?

(2) Should I kiss him good bye?

(3) He has always been very attentive to me. Should I notice him?

(4) He is very good looking and I love him very much. Will you kindly tell me what to do?

KATHERINE.
(1) The girl might make a splendid reading. "Today I will not lie." It should be hung in her room where she will see it frequently. It would also be well for her to write in a note book the lies she tells each day and check at the end of the day when she is telling the truth and less frequently. She might find it a help to inflict some kind of punishment on herself for each lie she tells. For instance, she could go without dessert, meat or something she likes at the next meal.

(2) Let him write to you first or ask you to write to him.
(3) Don't let your mind dwell on him. If he does not love you in return by thinking of him and by being loved you will have enough to think of him after he has told you so.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl sixteen years of age and deeply in trouble. There is a young fellow of good character and high position who lives about a mile out of town. He comes in town Wednesday and Saturday nights. He flirts with me every time he saw me and would speak and tip his hat. I always answered with a friendly hello and smiled.

Saturday evening I went up town with my girl friend and her fellow was standing right beside our car. He looked at us and then we saw him turn and go off. The next day I heard that he had asked a girl to take a ride and she went. The next night I saw them together and he spoke and threw up his hand at us as he is the only boy ever thought so much of, although he never asked to take me home nor to take a ride. I think he would have if he had. I think he took the other girl for spite. Please tell me how to win his love as I dearly love him. I know his sisters well. They come around to my house every once in awhile.

The boy had opportunities to seek your company before he saw you in the other machine. You may be sure that he wanted to know you better. He would not allow yourself to love a boy who merely greets you pleasantly when you meet. If you want to love you will do so with any effort on your part to make him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of eighteen and I have been keeping company with a boy for one year. I love him dearly. He gets thirty dollars a week and is very industrious. My father does not approve of him and says that he only laughs at him because he is a fool. I believe that he does and he would not be so kind to me. He takes us for a ride in his auto every Sunday after church and he wants to be engaged. I told him that he must be my father about that, which he did and father would not hear of it. Mother seems inclined to favor his position and seems to like him very much. However, she will not marry him for at least three years. I want to marry him right away. What shall I do?

WORRIED.
You surely does love you or he wouldn't ask you to marry him. You are so young that you better wait until you are twenty before becoming engaged.

Household Hints

PEAR HONEY.

One cup pears, two cups sugar. Pare and grind pears, add sugar and mix well together. Blend and set in a place or stand in oven over night. When clear and looks like honey put in jelly glasses.

RHUBARB JAM.

Select red stalks of rhubarb, as they make the richest colored preserves. Remove the skin, but keep as much of the red underneath as possible. Cut the stalks into half-inch slices, cover with an equal weight of sugar, and let stand over night. For each three or four pounds of fruit add the grated rind and juice of one lemon.

Let it boil for half an hour after it reaches the boiling point, then let it simmer gently another half-hour. An ounce of blanched almonds sliced thin may be added.

MAKE YOUR PORTIERES.

Very pretty portieres can be made at home by exercising a little ingenuity. One pair seen lately was of soft green arras-cloth. Two bands of olive brown linen were applied to the bottom, about six inches from the bottom. The tops of these bands were outlined in a heavy line of golden tan rope silk in outline stitch, and the lower edges of the bands were treated in the same way in olive green rope silk. These embroidered bands of outline embroidery also ran the length of the curtains. The bands were composed of three lines of rope silk, two tan and one green in the middle.

Another very effective curtain can be made by using gray material and applying to it a hem of darker gray, decorated with small cubes, embroidered in solid yellow and outlined in black.

A portiere that is a little more intricate in the making will amply repay one for the trouble. Two harmonious tones of tan can be used nicely. Cut a continuous band, about six inches at the sides and twelve inches at the bottom, and apply to the way up the sides and across the bottom of the curtains, about nine inches from the edges. Embroider the corners of the bottom of the band in cubes in the brightest harmonizing color note of the room.

THE TABLE.

Mock Sausage (for ten people).—Take 25 cents worth of round steak; grind; add one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon black pepper, what will hold on the end of a teaspoon of ground cloves and a dash of nutmeg. Mix with a little oil, one cup water (more if needed). Mix all together, make into cakes like sausage, then fry.

Salad Dressing.—Five tablespoons of condensed milk, three tablespoons prepared mustard, one teaspoon vinegar; mix and pour over any salad.

Corn Water.—Make a little boiled corn. Stir into it nice popcorn that has been buttered and salted. Put on water, about an inch thick, put in oven and brown slightly. Serve with ice cream.

For Summer Camp or Bungalow—a ready-cooked ready-to-eat food—a food that keeps in any climate, that supplies the greatest nutriment in smallest bulk, Shredded Wheat Biscuit is the ideal Summer food, easily and quickly digested. Combines deliciously with fresh fruits. Always clean, always pure, always the same price.

Made at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Baked Cherry Pudding.—One tablespoon sugar, one tablespoon butter, two eggs, two-thirds cup sweet milk, two tablespoons baking powder. Stir together, add one cup of cherries, grease baking dish, put in a layer of batter, then of cherries and sugar, and so on until dish is full. Bake butter on top. To be eaten with sugar and cream.

Creamed Peach Pie.—Peel stone and halve ripe peaches. Line deep pie plate and lay the peaches in this.

GINGLES' JINGLES

THE LITTLE WOMAN.

Makes no difference when or how or where you chance to amble forth, cut no figure from what point you bear it hence, there is one important thought that you should always bear in mind, which will list you as a guy with common sense. "The thought of little wife in the home you left behind—of the little woman you have pledged to love, pledged to honor and obey, until life's journey at an end, 'till she's numbered in the roll call up above. Let your thoughts at all times journey back to this dear one at home, who has shared your lot for better or for worse, who is faithful to her promise, who is loyal to the cause, she's your helpmate from the altar to the hereafter. And your first and greatest duty is to be true blue to her, let her share your gladness as she will your woes, in your sickness she is with you—take her with you in your joys, how you'll miss her should she leave——God only knows. Ernest H. Single

PRONATED FEET OR WEAK ARCHES?

A splint or similar support is a fine thing for a broken bone, but would be disastrous if applied for a weak arch.

Official supports of one sort or another have been growing more popular in recent years. Corsets and abdominal harnesses for men and women, shoulder braces for children, and various supports for the feet, are all evidence of a general feeling that the body is becoming weaker.

An arch support, made to measure and skillfully fitted by an orthopedic surgeon or physician, is of some value in the treatment of flat feet. A support is positively injurious in the relief of pronated or "weak" feet. In any case a core by means of an appliance is of no question.

What are pronated feet?

Individuals of any age, but especially girls from eight to eighteen years of age, have pronated feet. The condition comes on gradually, causes constant "growing pains," fatigue, pain in feet, calves, or back, even pain in the back of the head when the patient is noticeably in walking. The toes turn out noticeably in walking. The shoes are scuffed off the inner border of sole. If the ankles are noticeably bent inward when the weight of the body is borne on the feet in walking, you can walk the street back of your group of young schoolgirls and pick out those with pronated feet just by noting the inward turned ankles.

If these young people are so unfortunate as to fall into the hands of the shoe-store "foot specialist," who has some patent appliances to sell, genuine flatfoot or falling arches will be the most probable result in the long run for it will delete a weak muscle you put that muscle out of commission, no matter how logical and affable your "graduated orthopedic specialist" may seem.

First, hygienic shoes—shoes built to fit the feet and not to comply with the style. Second, exercises to restore strength and tone to the weakened calf muscles. Third, attention to the patient's general health and hygiene, which are always faulty. Fourth, in many cases, adhesive plaster strapping of the foot and leg by the physician and sometimes lifts on inner border of soles and heels, to correct and retain the position of the foot.

High heels and narrow pointed, out-turned soles cause pronated feet. No one should wear a heel more than one and one-half inches high, and no normal adult should wear a heel less than two inches wide. Venus de Milo's heel is two inches wide, Achilles' heel is two and one-half inches wide. The shoemakers can't improve on these.

An undeformed foot toes straight ahead. A trifle inward and outward, why, then, do the shoemakers insist upon making us toe out? Do they assume that we are all flat-footed or that we should be? Or, heaven forbid, are they deliberately trying to create a universal demand for their appliances to correct foot troubles?

Feeding the children at night. QUESTION.—A mother asks me to state whether it is injurious for children (one three, the other eight years old) to have their dinner at seven o'clock instead of eating at noon?

ANSWER.—No. Evening is the preferable time for everybody to take the heartiest meal of the day.

Seamstress's Cramp. QUESTION.—Can you tell me what makes one of my fingers remain bent after I have sewed for some time. I can't straighten it out unless I use the other hand for the purpose, then it remains straight.

ANSWER.—Seamstress's cramp—makes one of my fingers remain bent after I have sewed for some time. I can't straighten it out unless I use the other hand for the purpose, then it remains straight.

Sprinkle thickly with sugar and fit on an upper crust. Have ready and cold a cream sauce. To make this scald a half pint of milk and thicken it with a tablespoon of cornstarch. Rubbed smooth in a little cold milk. Add two tablespoons sugar and frothed white of one egg. Boil together five minutes and set aside to cool. When pie is done carefully lift top crust and fill the pie to overflowing with the cream sauce. Replace crust and set in cool place. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and eat very cold.

COURIER OF VERDUN

DEVELOPS NEW TYPE OF HEROES IN WAR

Telephone and Telegraph Wires Useless and Important Orders Are Carried by Daring Soldiers.

Paris, Aug. 2.—The unexampled conditions of fighting before Verdun have developed a new type of soldier called "the courier of Verdun." These are the men who maintain communication between the troops in the midst of the moles and officers commanding from the rear. The battlefield into which they dash with orders or information in a desolate zone where nothing but thick smoke, sometimes black, sometimes white, gives appearance of life, excepting during the brief space of a few minutes, when the appearance of the courier is a sharp eye discovers no movement of humanity. The earth is everywhere furrowed by freshly sired earth, but no one sees the hand that stirred it. Occasionally a form is seen going over this desert land something after the manner of a rabbit, bounding into sight out of the horizon and above, even ground to disappear again, leaping from obstacle to obstacle, from ditch to ditch, from shell hole to shell hole, at times vaulting, at others crawling, sometimes kept motionless for considerable periods by showers of projectiles sent over from the other side of the line for his personal benefit. This is the messenger of modern battle; he was never more needed nor more useful than at Verdun and the world will probably bear the name for years to come of "the courier of Verdun."

Shells Destroy Wires.

Not a telephone line can resist the incessant bombardment that digs up the shell and levels all field work along the whole line in front of this fortress; consequently to assure communication between the front and the rear is a difficult problem. Communications by carrier pigeon are very uncertain and optical signals are insufficient for various reasons. Nothing is certain excepting the man himself, and orders across the beaten field require something extraordinary in the way of man. He must be an athlete with good lungs and above all, he must have a stout heart.

The courier of Verdun is unable to use the communicating trenches where he would be out of sight of the enemy because that line is crowded with soldiers going to or from the front line, with wounded being carried back, with some of the commissary department carrying provisions to the men on guard. That is why the courier of the courier of Verdun; he must take his chances of being sighted and hit—above ground.

The first formidable obstacle to pass is the zone that is called "the drum fire," where 8-inch, 6-inch and 4-inch shells are bursting with formidable explosions, sending showers of shrapnel over the whole zone. In going through this ordeal, the courier sees everywhere the spectacle of death.

stumbles over corpses, sometimes runs into a cloud of poison vapor before he has crossed it, once through he is within range of the smaller German guns and the quick fire.

During the whole distance of a mile or two miles, according to the position, his nerves are at the highest tension, with his mind on the end of his mission and at the same time on the obstacles that are multiplied each instant in his path.

Some of these couriers get through untouched, others crawl back to the starting point bruised or maimed. Some of them never come back to tell the story of their heroic effort.

The couriers of Verdun maintained communication from the rear with the heroic troops under the orders of Commandant Raynal—a company of 112nd infantry and a machine gun section of the 53rd—who held the Fort of Vaux several days against overwhelming numbers of assailants. They were all volunteers selected from a considerable number of men who offered themselves for the dangerous mission. One of them was a boy of the contingent of 1916, of childish aspect, who every time volunteers were asked for was the first man to the front. "He had scarcely returned from one of these perilous missions," said his captain, "when he pleaded to be sent out again. Another literally riddled by fragments of a shell that had burst in his path, had dragged himself back, though unable to rise to his feet, assisted the colonel and said: 'Colonel, I am done for, but I have not enough left in me to give account of my mission.' He made his report and that was the end of his service for his country."

One of these couriers presented himself at the commanding post of a colonel, panting, covered with mud, and bleeding freely. He had passed through the zone on a "drum fire" that ploughed up the ground yard by yard methodically. He held out the envelope containing the message. "However did you get through?" asked the colonel.

"Colonel," was the reply, "I don't know; I only noticed that the envelope was marked 'urgent.'"

He strolled around to the tennis lawn and was welcomed politely by the players. Evidently they were chaffing him, and their chaff sounded horribly English. Then the plump man, mopping his brow with a silk handkerchief, announced that he must have a job.

I heard his very words. "I've got into a proper lather," he said. "This will bring down my weight and my handicap, Bob. I'll take you on tomorrow and give you a stroke a hole."

They all went into the house and left me feeling a precious idiot. I had been barking up the wrong tree this time. These men might be acting, but if they were where was their audience? They didn't know I was sitting thirty yards off in a rhododendron. It was simply impossible to believe that these three hearty fellows were anything but what they seemed—three ordinary, game playing, suburban Englishmen, wearisome, if you like, but sordidly innocent.

And yet there were three of them, and one was old, and one was plump, and one was lean and dark, and their house chimed in with Scudler's notes, and half a mile off was lying a steam yacht with at least one German officer. I thought of Karolides lying dead, and all Europe trembling on the edge of an earthquake, and the men I had left behind me in London, who were waiting anxiously for the events of the next hours. There was no doubt that mischief was afoot somewhere.

The Black Stone had won and if it survived this June night would bank its winnings. There seemed only one thing to do—go forward as if I had no doubts and, if I was going to make a fool of myself, to do it handsomely. Never in my life have I faced a job with greater disinclination.

I would rather, as my mind was then, have walked into a den of anarchists, each with his Browning handy, or faced a charging lion with a popgun than enter the happy home of three cheerful Englishmen and tell them that their game was up. How they would laugh at me!

But suddenly I remembered a thing I once heard in Rhodesia from old Peter Plennar. I have quoted Peter already in this narrative. He was the best scout I ever knew, and before he had turned respectable he had been pretty often on the windy side of the law—when he had been wanted badly by the authorities.

Peter once discussed with me the question of disguises, and he had a theory which struck me at the time. He said, barring absolute certainties like finger prints, mere physical traits were very little use for identification. If the fugitive really knew his business, he laughed at things like dyed hair and false beards and such childish follies.

The only thing that mattered was what Peter called "atmosphere." If a man could get into perfectly different surroundings from those in which he had been first observed—and this is the important part—really play up to these surroundings and behave as if he had never been out of them he would puzzle the cleverest detectives.

And he used to tell a story of how he once borrowed a black coat and went to church and shared the same hymn book with the man that was looking for him. If that man had seen him in decent company before he would have recognized him, but he had only seen him snuffing the lights in a public house with a revolver.

The recollection of Peter's talk gave me the first real comfort I had had that day. Peter had been a wise old bird, and these fellows I was after were about the pick of the aviary. What if they were playing Peter's game?

A fool tries to look different; a clever man looks the same and is different. It was now getting on for 8 o'clock, and I went back and saw Scudle to give him his instructions. I arranged with him how to place his men, and then I went for a walk, for I didn't feel up to any dinner. I went round the deserted golf course and then to a point on the cliffs farther north, beyond the line of the villas.

On the little, trim, newly made roads I met people in flannels coming back from tennis and the beach, and a coast guard from the wireless station, and donkeys and pierrrots padding homeward. Out at sea, in the blue dusk, I saw lights appear on the Aradne and on the destroyer away to the south and beyond the Cook sands the bigger lights of steamers making for the Thames.

The whole scene was so peaceful and ordinary that I got more dashed in spirits every second. It took all my resolution to stroll toward Trafalgar lodge about half past 9.

Scudle's men would be posted now, but there was no sign of a soul.

The house stood as open as a market place for anybody to observe. A three foot railing separated it from the cliff road. The windows on the ground floor were all open, and shaded lights and the low sound of voices revealed where the occupants were finishing dinner. Everything was as public and aboveboard as a charity bazaar.

Feeling the greatest fool on earth, I opened the gate and rang the bell.

A man of my sort who has traveled about the world in rough places gets on perfectly well with two classes—what you may call the upper and the lower. He understands them, and they understand him. I was at home with hermits and tramps and roadmen, and I was sufficiently at my ease with people like Sir Walter and the men I had met the night before.

I can't explain why, but it is a fact. But what fellows like me don't understand is the great, comfortable, satisfied middle class world, the folk that live in villas and suburbs. He doesn't know how they look at things, he doesn't understand their conventions, and he is as shy of them as of a black man.

When a trim parlor maid opened the door I could hardly find my voice.

I asked for Mr. Appleton and was ushered in. My plan had been to walk straight into the dining room and by a sudden appearance wake in the men that start of recognition which would condemn my theory.

But when I found myself in that neat hall the piece mastered me.

CHAPTER XV.

The Conspirators' Lair.

THERE were the golf clubs and tennis rackets, the straw hats and caps, the rows of gloves, the sheet of walking sticks which you will find in many British homes. A stack of neatly folded coats and waterproofs covered the top of an old oak chest. There was a grandfather clock ticking, and some polished brass vases on the walls, and a barometer, and a print of Chiltern winning the St. Leger.

The place was as orthodox as an Anglican church. When the maid asked me for my name I gave it automatically and was shown into the smoking room on the right side of the hall.

That room was even worse. I hadn't time to examine it, but I could see some framed group photographs above the mantelpiece, and I could have sworn they were English public school or college. I had only one glance, for I managed to pull myself together and go after the maid.

But I was too late. She had already entered the dining room and given my name to her master, and I had missed the chance of seeing how the three took it.

When I walked into the room the old man at the head of the table had risen and turned around to meet me. He was in evening dress—a short coat and black tie—as was the other, whom I called in my own mind the plump one.

The third, the dark fellow, wore a blue serge suit and a soft white collar and the colors of some club or school. The old man's manner was perfect. "Mr. Hannay?" he said hesitatingly. "Did you wish to see me? One moment, you fellows, and I'll join you. We had better go to the smoking room."

Though I hadn't an ounce of confidence in me, I forced myself to play the game. I pulled up a chair and sat down on it.

"I think we have met before," I said. "And I guess you know my business."

The light in the room was dim, but so far as I could see their faces they played the part of mystification very well.

"Maybe, maybe," said the old man. "I haven't a very good memory, but I'm afraid you must tell me your errand, for I really don't know it."

"Well, then," I said, and all the time I felt myself to be talking pure foolishness. "I have come to tell you that the game's up. I have here a warrant for the arrest of you three gentlemen."

"Arrest!" said the old man, and he looked really shocked. "Arrest! Good God, what for?"

"For the murder of Franklin Scudler in London on the 23d day of last month."

"I never heard the name before," said the old man in a dazed voice. One of the others spoke up: "That was the Portland place murder. I read about it. Good heavens, you must be mad, sir! Where do you come from?"

"Scotland Yard," I said. After that for a minute there was utter silence. The old man was staring at his plate and fumbling with a nut, the very model of innocent bewilderment.

Then the plump one spoke up. He stammered a little, like a man picking his words.

"Don't get flustered, uncle," he said. "It is all a ridiculous mistake. But these things happen sometimes, and we can easily set it right. It won't be hard to prove our innocence. I can show that I was out of the country on the 23d of May, and Bob was in a nursing home. You were in London, but you can explain what you were doing."

"I have come to tell you that the game's up."

"Right, Money! Of course that's easy enough. The 23d. That was the day after Agatha's wedding. Let me see. What was I doing? I came up in the morning from Woking and lunched at the club with Charlie Symons. Then—oh, yes! I dined with the Fishmongers! I remember, for the punch didn't agree with me, and I was seedy next morning. Hang it all, there's the cigar box I brought back from the dinner!"

He pointed to an object on the table and laughed nervously. "I think, sir," said the young man, addressing me respectfully, "you will see you are mistaken. We want to assist the law, like all Englishmen, and we don't want Scotland Yard to be making fools of themselves. That's so, uncle?"

"Certainly, Bob." The old fellow seemed to be recovering his voice. "Certainly. We'll do anything in our power to assist the authorities. But—this is a bit too much. I can't get over it."

"How Nellie will chuckle!" said the plump man. "She always said that you would die of boredom because nothing ever happened to you. And now you've got it thick and strong, and he began to laugh very pleasantly."

"By Jove, yes! Just think of it! What a story to tell at the club! Really, Mr. Hannay, I suppose I should be angry, to show my innocence, but it's too funny. I almost forgive you the fright you gave me. You looked so glum I thought I might have been walking in my sleep and killing people."

It couldn't be acting. It was too confidently genuine.

My heart went into my boots, and my first impulse was to apologize and clear out. But I told myself I must see it through, even though I was to be the laughing stock of Britain.

The light from the dinner table candles was not very good, and to cover my confusion I got up, walked to the door and switched on the electric light. The sudden glare made them blink, and I stood scanning the three faces.

Well, I made nothing of it. One was old and bald, one was stout, one was dark and thin. There was nothing in their appearance to prevent them being the three who had hunted me in Scotland, but there was nothing to identify them.

I simply can't explain why I, who as a roadman had looked into two pairs of eyes and as New Ainslie into another pair—why I, who have a good memory and reasonable powers of observation—could find no satisfaction. They seemed exactly what they professed to be, and I could not have sworn to one of them.

There in that pleasant dining room with etchings on the walls and a picture of an old lady in a bib above the mantelpiece, I could see nothing to connect them with the moorland desperadoes. There was a silver cigarette box beside me, and I saw that it had been won by Montague Appleton, Esq., of the St. Regis club in a golf tournament. I had to keep firm hold of Peter Plennar to prevent myself bolting out of that house.

"Well," said the old man politely, "are you reassured by your scrutiny, sir?"

I couldn't find a word. "I hope you'll find it consistent with your duty to drop this ridiculous business. I make no complaint, but you'll see how annoying it must be to respectable people."

I shook my head.

"Oh," said the young man, "this is a bit too thick!"

"Do you propose to march us off to the police station?" asked the plump one. "That might be the best way out of it, but I suppose you won't be content with the local branch. I have the right to ask to see your warrant, but I don't wish to cast any aspersion upon you. You are only doing your duty. But you'll admit it's horribly awkward. What do you propose to do?"

There was nothing to do except to call in my men and have them arrested or to confess my blunder and clear out. I felt mesmerized by the whole place, by the air of obvious innocence—not innocence merely, but frank, honest bewilderment and concern—in the three faces.

"Oh, Peter Plennar!" I groaned inwardly, and for a moment I was very near damning myself for a fool and asking their pardon.

"I can't find a word," said the plump one. "It will give Hannay time to think over things, and you know we have been wanting a fourth player. Do you play, sir?"

I accepted as if it had been an ordinary invitation at the club. The whole business had mesmerized me. We went into the smoking room, where a card table was set out, and I was offered things to smoke and drink.

I took my place at the table in a kind of dream.

The window was open, and the moon was flooding the cliffs and the sea with a great tide of yellow light. There was moonshine, too, in my head. The three had recovered their composure and were talking easily—just the kind of slang talk you will hear in any golf clubhouse.

I must have cut a rum figure, sitting there knitting my brows, with my eyes wandering.

My partner was the young, dark one. I play a fair hand at bridge, but I must have been drunk that night. They saw that they had got me puzzled, and that put them more than ever at their ease. I kept looking at their faces, but they conveyed nothing to me. It was not that they looked different; they were different. I clung desperately to the words of Peter Plennar.

Then something awoke me. The old man laid down his hand to light a cigar. He didn't pick it up at once, but sat back for a moment in his chair, with his finger tapping on his knees.

It was the movement I remembered when I had stood before him in the moorland farm with the pistols of his servants behind me.

A little thing, lasting only a second, and the odds were a thousand to one that I might have had my eyes on my cards at the time and missed it. But I didn't, and a flash the air seemed to clear. Some shadow lifted from my brain, and I was looking at the three men with full and absolute recognition.

The clock on the mantelpiece struck 10 o'clock.

House Your Car in "Old Faithful" HEMLOCK

An automobile is an investment worth protecting. Don't try to keep it in the barn or shed. It doesn't pay.

A garage built of "Old Faithful" HEMLOCK lumber will solve the problem right at small cost—and you will have a real garage, not a draughty, shaky, ready-made affair. It will protect the car, keep inflammable gasoline, etc., by itself, where it should be, and incidentally show you what a satisfactory all-round lumber stand-by HEMLOCK is. ("Good idea. I'll do it!")

In this effort much depends on fresh air—night and day—and rest and good food. The patient should refrain from work that overtaxes, and all sanitary precautions should be taken. These commonsense measures do not always achieve the desired results unless aided by proper medication.

LOWLY ATHLETICS AGAIN LOSE TWO

Sox Score Shutout in Opener But Have Battle Winning Second

Contest of Afternoon.

The White Sox took both ends of yesterday's twin bill with the Athletics, 2 to 0 and 3 to 2, making it seven straight games on the series. The opener was a contest between Nabors and Russell, in which well placed hits in the third and eighth round decided the pastime.

The after piece was started by Scott for the Sox, but he blew up in the fourth for one tally, and was supplanted by Danforth, who was also nipped in the seventh. Myers had pitched good ball for four innings, but he weakened enough to allow the Sox two passes and a single for two runs in the fifth. The winning run was scored in the sixth on two singles and a pass.

Browns Win Twelfth.

Yesterday's victory made it twelve straight for the Browns, but they had to go fourteen innings to hand the Yankees their sixth successive defeat, 3 to 2, which closed the series. The winning run came when Sister singled off Russell, who relieved Morridge. Pratt sacrificed and Marsans singled. New York scored in the first inning on a single, a stolen base and two sacrifice hits. Morridge blanked the Browns to the eighth with only one runner getting to third. In that inning St. Louis scored two runs on a double, a single, an error and infield out.

CUBS AND PHILLIES SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

First Battle to Chicago Team By the Shutout Route, While Demaree Beats Hendrix in Second.

The Phillies and Cubs split even in the first of a double bill, the first going to Chicago 2 to 0 and the second to Philadelphia 3 to 2. In the first game Lavender was in splendid form and held the Phillies to four hits. Demaree and Hendrix pitched hits. Demaree and Hendrix pitched hits. Demaree and Hendrix pitched hits.

PLAYGROUND TEAMS TIED FOR THE LEAD

Jefferson Defeats Webster in Hard Fought Contest Placing Two Teams at Head of League.

After nine innings of close play the Jefferson baseball team won from the Webster by the score of 17 to 15, pushed themselves into a tie for first place with the Fourth Ward nine. Only two games remain to be played by these teams, the last being a close race for the championship. The Washington team also has a chance to tie for the title if they can win from the Jefferson and the Webster. The Adams are out of the race but have a chance to make the race interesting.

This afternoon the Adams and the Washington will meet at the Jefferson grounds. On Friday the Webster and the Washington will play at the Jefferson plot.

The results of the games in the girls' volleyball ball league were very satisfactory. The Adams five won three games from the Jefferson team, while the Webster won handsily from the Washington in three easy games. Now that the league has started the girls are taking interest in the event and are practicing in order to win the coveted title.

The standings in the volleyball league follow:

| Team | W. | L. | Pct. |
|------------|----|----|-------|
| Adams | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Webster | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Washington | 0 | 1 | .000 |
| Jefferson | 0 | 1 | .000 |

The percentages in the indoor baseball league are:

| Team | W. | L. | Pct. |
|------------|----|----|------|
| Jefferson | 2 | 0 | .714 |
| Webster | 2 | 0 | .714 |
| Washington | 3 | 3 | .500 |

MORRIS MILLER

With Maurice McLoughlin out of it the east will have a better chance against the youngsters from the coast in the big east-west games that are to take place this fall. Even so it doesn't seem likely that the eastern boys will be able to keep pace with the California speed kings. The western team will probably consist of William Johnston, the national champion; Willis Davis, the claycourt champion; Clarence Griffin, Ward Dawson and Roland Roberts. The eastern team will consist of Morris Williams, George Church, Karl Rohr, T. R. Pell, William Clothier and Watson Washburn. Williams when going his best can certainly hold his own against any player, but he has not been strong in his few appearances this season. From the showing so far it seems to give the western boys the best chance.

George Baumgartner, who refused to be released by Jones a while ago and stayed in the big leagues on smaller money than he could have had in the bushes, has now been released for sure. Jones seemed to weary of having George around and finally told him to get out and stay out. George, who is said to be as great a nut as ever graced the game, was philosophical about it. He explained to a sympathetic friend that he knew what he was going to do, but he said, "I was about shot, but I stuck. My left arm was just as good as when I broke into the game. As long as he had an arm he knew he could make a living at baseball. So George has decided to go back to the mountains and practice with his left arm till it's just as good as his right one used to be. He can't learn to pitch by throwing stones at squirrels and when he can pick them off with his left arm he'll come back to the big leagues. I hear they need left-handers in the league."

IS JOE WOOD FOR SALE OR IS HE NOT?

Joe Wood.

Though Joe Wood at last accounts and not made terms with Owner Lannin of the Red Sox is pretty likely that he soon will, as he says he's all set to pitch again. Lannin denies the rumor that Joe might be sold to Cleveland, but he denied the Tris Speaker rumor, too.

American league now," says George.

Bill Donovan has a recruit in the International league who is pitching the most amazing ball and most likely will soon appear in a Yankee uniform. This Urban Shooker, at last accounts, had won some fourteen games and lost only two, and that with Toronto, which team till lately had not been very near the first division. Five of his games have been shut-outs and not long ago he shut out Rochester, allowing the team not a hit in eleven innings. All of which must please Bill Donovan, whose pitching staff has been faltering a bit of late.

It is pleasant to see that when Charlie Herzog left Cincinnati and Matty came to replace him there were cheers and cordial expressions for Herzog before he went as well as for Matty when he came. Herzog didn't give the town a pennant winner, but he did his best under tough circumstances and he played a great game himself. It's a cinch when he appears with the Giants in Cincy he will get the town's attention and fans in Cincinnati will always remember him as a remarkably good ball player and the same sort of a good fellow.

It has been said of Muggsy McGraw that he sometimes tried to provoke dissatisfaction among players of other teams merely to further his own end, though of course this has been said at different times of every manager in the business. A Pittsburgh writer points out that McGraw's recent praise of Al Mamaux may have something of this spirit behind it. It would not be surprising, says this Pittsburgh scribe, if Al, by shortly to complain about hotel accommodation, the food offered him, and so on, somewhat in Slim Sallee's manner. Then if Al declared that the Pirates didn't appreciate him he would recall Muggsy's pleasant words and long to join the Giants. This is the way it has worked before.

Spring recruits didn't fare very well in the National league this season. Of all that appeared early in the season there are only six that can be counted real big league quality. The Cubs have two, Mulligan, a shortstop, and Flack, an outfielder. Neale, a youngster the Reds picked up in the Ohio State league, is the real thing, and he is Sam Rice, a catcher with the Pirates. There is also the well known Bennie Kauff, who is quite new even though he's been talking ever since he came into the business, and this is his first season in real big league company. Collins, an outfielder with the Braves, is the only other kid from the bushes to make good.

CENTER

Center, Aug. 1.—The cool wave which came to us Sunday night was surely a relief to both man and beast.

Monday afternoon, July 31st, a party of ladies came uninvited to the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. James Roberty to remind Mrs. Roberty of her birthday. She received a number of mementoes of the occasion, among which was a set of sterling teaspoons from her son John and wife. The afternoon was very enjoyably spent in social chat and doing justice to a six o'clock luncheon provided by the self-invited guests, after which all departed wishing Mrs. Roberty many happy returns of her natal day.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Winn of Whitewater have been visiting at the parental home of the latter.

Mrs. Edson Brown of East Center administrative system, the national council will be the agency through which these other states will learn the details of the Wisconsin method.

SEES CHANCE FOR FRANCE TO ECONOMICIZE ON FOOD

Paris, Aug. 2.—France could economize on food alone to the extent of twenty billion francs a year, or enough to wipe out its probable war losses in less than five years, according to Mlle. Dydimista, an authority on scientific housekeeping, who herself is carrying out some extreme ideas in household economy. The French people, she declares, are spending twenty billion francs a year merely to satisfy their palates, and all this might be saved if the people would consent to be nourished scientifically on the most economical ration measured each day as are those of horses and livestock. It could be done, too, she declares, without imposing any hardship on French stomachs.

NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL ADOPTS WISCONSIN METHOD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., Aug. 2.—Recognizing the safety promotion methods of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission as the most effective and the most practical, the National Safety Council has decided to adopt the Wisconsin plan for extension throughout the country. The national council was organized four years ago at a convention in Milwaukee, at which the whole field of industrial safety and the prevention of work accidents was covered in speeches and outlines. Since that time the council has become an important body. It now counts in its membership all the largest manufacturing plants in the country. Its influence extends to millions of workmen and its safety and accident prevention propaganda may be seen everywhere.

Just about the time the council was organized the Industrial Commission at Madison began putting into force its plan for accident prevention. This plan was materially different from that of any other state in that the administrative body adopted an attitude of helpfulness instead of invoking its power as a policeman to force employers to guard their machinery. The plan and theory of the commission has proved successful. For that reason the national council has given it recognition. It is understood that three other states already have signified their willingness to adopt the Wisconsin system, the national council will be the agency through which these other states will learn the details of the Wisconsin method.

DUTCH STEAMER SUNK BY A GERMAN SUBMARINE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Aug. 2.—The South Shields Gazette says the Dutch steamship Zeeland, while on her way from a Scottish port to a foreign port, has been sunk by a German submarine after the crew had been ordered to take to the boats.

The Zeeland was of 1,293 tons gross and was built in 1907. She was 281 feet long, 34 feet beam, and 14 feet deep. Her home port was Rotterdam.

SMALL BOYS IN DEMAND IN ITALIAN LABOR MARKS

Livestock Exhibition and Home Coming

Under the Management of The Janesville Park Association at Janesville, Wis., AUGUST 8, 9, 10 and 11

This Big Fair will be just as educational, inspirational and entertaining—more so—than any of its predecessors. Plan now so that you can attend at least three days out of the four. It will be worth your while. This is everybody's fair and everybody is expected to attend.

Agriculture—Horticulture—Floriculture

In this Department will be shown the Finest Specimens of Field, Garden, Meadow and Orchard Products

Ripe Juicy, Delicious and Toothsome Fruits—Your mouth will water to taste them. Your heart will yearn to possess them. Enormous and Prolific Vegetables—Pleasing to the eye and tempting to the palate.

Beautiful and Attractive Flowers

The pick of the conservatories, the choice of homes and gardens. Grains, grasses, seeds, flowers and plants. This is the place to see and study them.

A Great Exhibition

A Livestock Show of the Highest Order

Every animal will be the pick of the farm, selected for the purpose of competing for a premium and the excellence of the show will be fully equal to its magnitude. The people will not only have an opportunity to see the animals but to ascertain their characteristics and to learn the late and improved methods of rearing, feeding and caring for all kinds of live stock.

Unexcelled Opportunity to Advertise and Sell Your Stock

Our fair offers unexampled opportunity for the sale and purchase of livestock, and buyers as well as sellers, are cordially invited to attend and take advantage of this opportunity.

Ample sheds, stalls and pens for all exhibitors. And hay, straw and water at convenient points upon the grounds.

Domestic Economy Promoted

GRAND FOOD AND DAIRY PRODUCTS SHOW

The raw materials of the soil, tree and vine transformed into finished table products such as butter, cheese, bread, cake and other edibles.

Illustrations of saving fruits and vegetables and enriching them to the taste by canning, preserving, pickling and the like, producing such things as Jams, Jellies, Butters, Relishes, Marmalades, etc.

A Veritable Ladies' Bazaar

Representing her genuine thrift and genius, sewing, knitting, crocheting, fancy work, textile fabrics, garments, etc.

The latest styles, the richest materials and the most elegant masterpieces of creative and decorative art and skill in needle work.

Household Furnishings

Embracing everything necessary to make up and ornament the home.

Plentiful Premiums and Purse Provided

By an examination of the Premium list it will be seen that the offerings are upon a scale of monumental liberality and the management assure all exhibitors that premiums will be paid promptly.
